

The Honorable Society of King's Inns was founded in 1541. The Society comprises benchers, barristers and students. The benchers include all the judges of the Supreme and High courts and a number of elected barristers. The School of Law at King's Inns is the oldest institution of legal education in Ireland. Its reputation is international with a long list of eminent graduates including former presidents of Ireland and of other countries, taoisigh, academics and, of course, judges and barristers in practice throughout the English speaking world. The primary focus of the School of Law is the training of barristers.

We now seek to assist with the recruitment of the Dean for the School of Law at King's Inns.

DEAN, SCHOOL OF LAW AT KING'S INNS

As Dean of the School of Law, your key responsibilities will include:

- the development and promotion of the School of Law as a centre of excellence for professional and academic law courses for students, aspiring barristers, legal practitioners and others;
- the promotion and delivery of all existing courses and the design of new specialist courses.

You will lead in the provision of education and continuing professional development for barristers and, in particular, with regard to the teaching of advocacy and related skills. You will manage a team of legal professionals. You will build relationships with relevant education institutions, government departments and agencies.

An academic legal qualification is essential. A legal professional qualification is desired. Experience in the management of academic or vocational legal education is also expected. The successful candidate should be a person with leadership qualities, a proven track record in the teaching and delivery of law courses and a keen interest in the development of legal education in Ireland. The candidate will also devise and implement a business strategy, manage and motivate a team of legal professionals and drive the promotion of "best in practice" in legal education in Ireland.

An attractive remuneration package will be offered to the successful candidate.

Candidates should send full career and salary details, quoting reference number 6230, to Michelle Noone, KPMG Executive Search & Selection, 1 Stokes Place, St Stephen's Green, Dublin 2. Tel: 01 410 2801 Fax: 01 412 2801 Email: michelle.noone@kpmg.ie

